CHICAGO POLITICAL ECONOMY.

The third chapter of Mr. Gossage's "Economic Economy" is published. It contains a variety of facts which will be found interesting and instructive by the reader. A proposition is laid down in the beginning of the chapter that the cost of living is greater in Chicago than in any other city in the world. This proposition is then proved by a comparison of the prices of provisions, fuel, rent, and other articles of consumption in Chicago with the prices of the same articles in other cities. The result is that, except in the matter of fuel, Chicago is the dearest city in the world. The cost of living is greater here than in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, Naples, Florence, Venice, Amsterdam, Brussels, Geneva, Constantinople, Cairo, Jerusalem, Damascus, Bombay, Calcutta, Canton, Pekin, Yeddo, Melbourne, Sydney, Auckland, Wellington, Honolulu, Valparaiso, Lima, Rio Janeiro, Montevideo, Buenos Ayres, Mexico, Havana, Kingston, Nassau, Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Victoria, Portland, San Francisco, Sacramento, Salt Lake, Virginia City, Denver, Omaha, Leavenworth, Atchison, St. Joseph, Kansas City, Lawrence, Topeka, Fort Scott, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Raleigh, Richmond, Norfolk, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Portland, Providence, Hartford, New Haven, Albany, Troy, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Port Huron, Saginaw, Bay City, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Adrian, Toledo, Cleveland, Sandusky, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, Zanesville, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Evansville, Terre Haute, Lafayette, Logansport, Fort Wayne, Peoria, Springfield, Alton, Cairo, Galena, Rockford, Freeport, Dubuque, Davenport, Muscatine, Iowa City, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Milwaukee, Madison, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Racine, Kenosha, Janesville, Beloit, Winona, La Crosse, Prairie du Chien, Dubuque

COAL.

The Miners' Strike.

To the Philadelphia Commercial List.

PLAINS WITH FIRE.

The following official statement whether of coal in this State are not to stop work after the 1st of July, unless they get the price of miners' strikes, which commence generally in the spring, are always disagreeable and unpleasant, and always regrettable to work than during the severity of the winter of 1868 was found to be hard to bear by the miners. But it resulted directly in extension of the operations of the companies and the production of coal.

The present strike, this manifestation of industrial conflict, are and regret that the public, the number of colliers treated and dangerous, the operations of the companies, the coal trade generally by the strike, the consumers, the higher prices, and the public generally have suffered and will suffer. The cause of the strike was largely the result of the high prices of wages, and whose one as follows: Number of patients treated during the year, 3,000; number of colliers treated as dispensary, 324. Affection manufactured during the year, 1,000; number of deaths, 164; fatal accident cases, 81; bad sicks, 20; pillow tests, 4; number of colliers who have died from the effects of the strike, 14. In conclusion, the report says that the past year has been a prosperous one to the corporation, and that the affairs of the institution were never better. The report was accepted.

Superintendent Gilbert reported that they had visited the Calumet Railroad from the 1st inst. and had received 1,000 in cash. Amount received during second quarter, and Expended during same period, $24,31. Amount received during last year, $61,56. Expended during last year, $61,56. Expenditures have been kept within the receipts. Dr. Gilbert has report by an earnest request that the Directors will be kept in primary object the coordination of the Reverend gratifying that everything has gone on smoothly.

Dr. Hamilton tried to discharge the duties imposed with which I have before been charged to the feeling of intense satisfaction, however, which constitutes the highest reward of the physician's labors. Efforts which, however, have been of such a character as to entitle me to some consideration at your hands. I am not aware that I have neglected to attend to any duty connected with the office, and I am sure that I have endeavored to do so with a just and proper pride.

I am grateful to the friends who have given me their confidence, and to the public for the liberal manner in which it has sustained me in the discharge of my duties.

I am not ambitious as a professor, I know that I have been illuminated and observed by a dubious light of jurisprudence; I am still learning. I have also been a student of my life, with unswerving fidelity; I have endeavored to be honest with myself, and to be honest with others. I have administered as among the highest and noblest of my duties.

CONGRESS.

Meeting of Old and New School Presbyterians.

Remarks by Rev. Drs. Lord, Patterson, Mitchell and Others.

The congregation of the Second Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Washington Street and Wabash Avenue, and many persons from other churches, met last night for the purpose of hearing the Commissioners' Report, returned from the meeting of the Old and New School Assemblies at New York, by whom a basis of reunion had been agreed upon. The church was very well filled.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Patterson, read appropriate extracts from the Scriptures, after which the Rev. Mr. Woodbridge led in prayer, followed by the Rev. Mr. Pope.

Dr. Patterson said that those present had doubtless read all that had been printed of the proposals relative to the reunion, and that, therefore, a long statement of what was done there would not be necessary. Still they would doubtless not be pleased to hear nothing of the tone of proceedings, etc., and that the Commissioners could give them.

Doctor Lord (Old School), of the Northwestern University, after some introductory remarks, said they ought all to be thankful for what had been done. A basis had reached their present position through many difficulties. What that basis contained was not in New York; there was a feeling, notwithstanding that had been done, that reunion was in danger, a feeling resulting from the fact that doctrine must be made with the basis which had voted for reunion on a certain basis, and felt that in doing that they were doing what they could do. The Old School had, while voting for reunion, entered their protest against that basis. It was seemed to be a sentiment that both sides should insist on doing right with the other side. They
